

VOTE FOR INDIA*Dr Prajakta Ratnaparkhi Dhote

Assistant Professor,
City Premier College

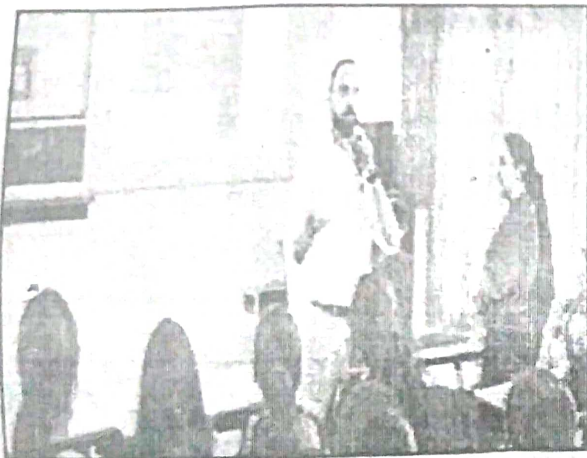

BEING responsible citizens of India, women have been contributing on their own to make this country a better place.

When a woman speaks, she does not speak for herself alone, but also for children and society as a whole. Any country is judged by how secure the women and children are, apart from other parameters. Women can make collective efforts in starting public library and a calm place for study for the needy students, have area-wise Women's Cell to hear the grievances of women and children, have common Internet place for economically weaker section to enhance their learning experience, conduct digital awareness programmes, conduct social awareness programmes for school-going children, maintain small garden and open gym instruments for senior citizens, install surveillance system by communicating with authorities. All these are small efforts that may have great impact. We are implementing a few of them in Shankarpur. We are also coming up with an idea of summer camp for kids to reduce their screen-time. These small initiatives also can help make India better.
